NEW YORK, August 29 .- With three lakes and a large section of northern Korea added to his conquests as an asplorer, Roy Chapman Andrews, assistant curator of the American Museum, has returned from a trip around the world. Mr. Andrews penetrated into the north Korean wilderness to the mysterious "Three rivers," as heard of in the folklore of the natives, but never seen by white men.

The main object of the expedition was the capture of certain specimens of gray whales, needed to make the collection at
